ANENT THE SENATORIAL RACE.

The Senatorial race to be decided Saturday is a most important race for we must send a man to represent us the next six trying momentous years in the Senate who can think straight, which is as important as to have man on the "firing line" who can shoot straight. Now this is Texas' most important post in the Government so let us send a man who will have the cooperation of the other good men from our great state serving in Washington; a man who will never be found in the obstructionists camp, a man who can clearly discuss the many issues in this campaign and who realizes from the very first that the winning of the world war and winning the peace to follow is a burning issue, a man who did not have to be told by the people of Texas that the war was a momentous issue. Texans, from the beginning of hostilities have sent the flower of our young manhood and the record of valor and supreme sacrifice shows clearly their convictions in this matter and in the light of past accomplishments does not ALLRED most nearly represent the sentiments of nine tenth of the people of Texas. We owe it to ourselves and to the country at large to get down to real issues for Ballyhoo and political incarnations have no place in this hour of crisis.

News From War Front

The Russians opened up with an aerial attack on East Prussia, making successful raids on German concentrations. They also counterattacked along a wide front and Germany admitted heavy fighting. Northwest and Southwest of Stalingrad; counterattacking Russian troops slowed down the German advance. The nazis said that enemy parachutists were used in the fighting.

Great Britain admitted the loss of four warships in the naval engagement between a British convoy and enemy submarines and ships in the Mediterranean. The two additional ship sinkings made known are the Cairo and the Foresight. The British downed sixty-six German planes while losing eight planes of their own.

Additional Allied troops have arrived in Egypt, landed from cargo planes.

An American submarine has sunk another Japanese ship in the Aleutians, the ninth sunk by submarines and the twenty-third sunk since Japanese activity began in that section.

The Chinese have carried the war within 600 miles of the Japanese Islands, retaking an important Japanese held city.

Brazil and Uruguay talked of war with the axis, following the sinking of five Brazilian ships by axis submarines. Angered at the sinkings, Brazil is expected to declare war on the axis, while it is said Uruguay can give greater aid to the Allied cause by remaining neutral.

The United States Army has been ordered to take over the S. A. Woods Machine Company at Boston, following a strike in that plant.

TANKS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT LANDED AMID GREAT SEA, AIR BATTLE; MUCH DAMAGE DONE

COMMANDOS ATTACK NAZI CONCENTRATIONS, BLOWING UP GUN BATTERIES, AMMUNITION DUMPS AND DAMAGE SUBMARINE BASE.

BULLETINS.

For the first time since nazi occupation of Europe, American forces landed on French soil in what has been described as the greatest Commando raid of the war, along with British and Canadian troops. The British radio maintained communication with the continent, telling French citizens this was not an invasion but merely a Commando raid and to keep in their homes. Commanded by Lord Louis Mount Batten, the Commandos landed on French soil across from Sussex, England, landing tanks and other heavy equipment. While it was not an actual invasion, it was said the landing could have been a blue print for a second front, and instead of landing and carrying out their objectives and leaving within an hour or two, many of the Commando units continued on the continent several hours after landing.

The Commandos attacked nazi concentrations in three sectors, blowing up gun batteries, ammunition dumps and are believed to have damaged the submarine base. Without doubt, it was the greatest Commando raid of all times and was believed to have tested the strength of the German defenses. The landing parties were aided by naval craft and air power, with a great air battle extending across the English Channel.

The nazi radio took advantage of the Commando raid to tell the German people it was a second front invasion attempt and had failed.

General Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, one of the toughest British Generals, has been put in command of the forces in North Africa. His job will be to destroy the axis forces in that theater of war. He is 50 years old. He will succeed General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck to the Middle East Command. His appointment is believed to be a result of the meeting in Moscow of Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin. Churchill stopped in Cairo on his return visit to Great Britain and spent a day with the Allied troops on the Alamein and Rouweeisat front.

German tank units forced the Russians back in one sector before the Volga industrial city of Stalingrad, and drove a wedge in another secor although in other areas Russian resistance strengthened. Indications are that the Germans have made new advances inthe South Caucasus. The Russians are holding the initiative in the Krasnodar sector. Marshall Semeon Timoshenko, in command of the Russian forces, says that the Germans have lost 1,250,000 men in the three months up to the middle of August, including 280,000 killed. They also said Germany had drawn reserve strength from Western Europe to strengthen the drive in Russia, declaring Germany has withdrawn twenty-two divisions from France, Belgium and Holland. Russian losses were given as 606,000 casualties, including those killed, wounded or missing.

With a showdown sea battle due, fighting continues in the Solomon Islands. The fighting in the islands may continue for weeks or months. Victories of the United States forces have enabled them to reinforce and supply land forces.

Record Crops Forecast For The Current Year

GROWING CONDITIONS ARE THE BEST FOR THIS TIME OF YEAR, SAYS THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT.

Describing growing conditions as the best on record for this time of year, the Agriculture Department reported Monday that the total volume of all crops this year was expected to be about 21 per cent above the average output of the decade prior to adoption of federal crop control programs.

The department emphasized that a record production was needed to supply war requirements of this country and its Allies.

The favorable outlook is due primarily, the department said in its monthly crop report, to prospects that crop yields per acre will be about 28 per cent above the average of the pre-drouth 1922-32 period and 6 per cent above that of any past year.

Growing conditions during July were said to have been outstandingly favorable. Except for rice and sweet potatoes, forecasts on production for most field crops were raised from 1 to 5 per cent between July 1 and Aug. 1.

Grain Estimates High.

The department said present indications are that grain production will be larger than in any other year except 1920. The August forecast includes 2,754,000,000 (billion) bushels of corn, 1,332,000,000 (billion) bushels of oats, and 955,172,000 bushels of wheat.

The indicated corn crop would be the largest since 1932, about 126,000,000 bushels more than was forecast a month ago, about 81,000,000 above last year, and about 19 per cent above average production for the ten-year 1930-1939 period. The oat crop would be the largest since 1925 and about 155,000,000 bushels above last year.

The wheat estimate is the largest since the record crop of 1916. The barley crop, estimated at 417,000,000 bushels, and the rice crop, forecast at 74,000,000 bushels, are expected to be 16 and 35 percent respectively, larger than in any previous year. The rye crop is expected to be the largest and the grain sorghum the second largest in twenty years or more.

Vegetable Oils Favorable.

The production of principal vegetable oil crops, needed to replace former imports, now seems likely, the department said, to exceed earlier expectations by a considerable margin.

Forecasts included 5,800,000 tons of cottonseed, 42,000,000 bushels of flaxseed, 186,000,000 bushels of soybeans, and 2,800,000,000 (billion) pounds of peanuts, makinb a total of 13,977,000 tons for the four crops or a combined increase of 45 per cent Other crops of which production prospects show marked increases in clude dry beans, dry peas, sugar cane and several vegetables for canning, chiefly tomatoes, corn and peas.

McKINNEY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1942.

With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right.—Abraham Lincoln.

All private automobile travel has been banned by government decree in Brazil, in a move designed to conserve gasoline. The country has 242,000 cars. The day the decree was issued the reserve gasoline supply was sufficient for only two weeks at a normal rate of consumption.

Even the American workingman henceforth will have to make sacrifices in his wardrobe, wearing wartime work clothes wtih fewer pockets, less buckels and buttons and no unnecessary materials, in accordance with new regulations issued by the War Production Board. However, the WPB order to manufacturers of men's work clothes, effective Aug. 15, does not force economies in cloth to the extent that the new model work garments will interfere with a worker's freedom of action. In general, they limit the number of pockets and fasteners on work clothing; provide that pockets may not have more than a single thickness, that pockets of waistbands may not be made from certain types of heavier cloth or that more than double stitching may be used.

NATION'S DIET IMPROVING.

Men in uniform are being fed more adequately from the standpoint of nutrition than two-thirds of all American civilians, it was asserted in a survey of 11,582 farm and city dwellers by the General Foods Corporation made public recently.

The study revealed that 27.7 per cent of American families are eating more of the so-called "protective" foods than did two years ago; that, contrary to tradition, 98 persons like spinach to every two who can't abide it; and that so prosaic an item as cheese is served in 87.6 per cent of all American homes.

The researchers reported we now are eating more green and-yellow vegetables, citrus fruits and juices, milks, eggs, whole wheat bread, whole grain cereals, vitamin-rich cereals and fish. Moreover, 54 per cent of housewives were found to be "greatly interested" in information about the health and nutritional values of foods.

HELPING WIN WAR BY RAISING CROPS.

An army of hundreds of thousands of teen-aged youngsters are on the march in rural America today, shouldering rakes, hoes, and shovels as their weapons of attack. On the defense front they are active in rounding up scrap rubber and other waste materials that will help win the war.

The "front line soldiers" are the boys and girls of the 4-H, the national club organization which seeks to improve the "head, heart, hands, and health" of its members. They have pledged themselves this year to the task of "feeding the farm family for health, morale, and victory" through a country-wide victory garden program.

Four-H has developed greatly since its inception several decades ago. Then there was little more than the three r's in the rural school; no project work in the home, no exhibits by rural youngsters in the county and state fairs. Today, it has spread to every state with more than 1,600,000 members.

This year, 4-H has definitely come of age. Thousands of farm families are being supplied with their entire vegetable requirements through the 4-H victory gardens.

Typical of this national food-raising effort is the accomplishment of Minnesota's 2,047 4-H clubs, with a membership of more than 47,000. Today, in that state, vegetables for more than 15,000 families are being produced on plots by club members.

SPEAKER RAYBURN'S DEFENSE OF CONGRESS.

In holding that criticism of Congress for hampering the war effort is unjustified, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn is defending the people's own division of the Federal Government, says the Dallas Times-Herald.

Speaker Rayburn has been in Washington many years. He has participated in many sessions of Congress and knows how the law-making body functions. When he says that Congress is doing its duty he knows what he is talking about.

Citizens who are prone to blame the lawmakers for everything that they dislike about policy and action in Washington, must remember that there are thousands of other government functionaries who are liable to error and to the making of careless statements.

Speaker Rayburn knows, of course, that, in a body composed, when all seats are full of 435 representatives and 98 senators, there are, inevitably, persons who are deficient in wisdom, discretion, ability, poise and other qualities necessary to statesmanship. But, in spite of this unstable minority, the American Congress is one of the ablest and most dignified law-making bodies in the world.

Criticism of Congress is, in the last analysis, criticism of the voting public. Representatives are elected every two years and Senators every six years, by direct vote. The errors of Congress as a body are due, as a rule, to overanxiety on the part of the members to please the public or some loudly vocal branch of it. It is true that the voters sometimes make mistakes and send to Congress men who are not equal to this great trust, but, in the long run, such mistakes are offset by the influence of the members who are sound in their statesmanship.

FARMERS TO BE PAID FOR USING COTTON BAGGING

American cotton farmers are assured of being compensated for wrapping their cotton in cotton bagging, the National Cotton Council says. Under a plan adopted by the major mill and trade associations and the cotton exchanges, all trading rules covering the buying and selling of cotton in the United States will grant the seller an allowance of seven pounds for each bale of cotton wrapped in cotton bagging.

The seven pound allowance has been made effective as of August 1, and is intended to indemnify cotton producers for the difference in tare between bales wrapped in cotton and those wrapped with old-fashioned jute or burlap bagging, a Council representative pointed out. The allowance also will eliminate the source of much confusion arising throughout the industry because of the substantial increase in use of cotton bagging for bale covering made necessary by the war.

Associations and exchanges adding the seven pound allowance plan to their trade rules, and thereby making certain that the farmer will receive benefit of the allowance at the time he sells his cotton, were the American Cotton Manufacturers Association; the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers; New England Cotton Buyers Association; American Cotton Shippers Association; the Southern Cotton Shippers Association; Atlantic Cotton Association; Arkansas Cotton Trade Association; Texas Cotton Association; Oklahoma State Cotton Exchange; California-Arizona Cotton Association, the Memphis Cotton Exchange; Houston Cotton Exchange; New Orleans Cotton Exchange; Galveston Cotton Exchange; Augusta Cotton Exchange; and Little Rock Cotton Exchange.

"One of the major problems receiving the attention of the Cotton Council has been the bagging situation, "Hugh M. Comer, cotton mill executive and chairman of the Council's special committee on cotton bale covering, explained. Drastic shortages of jute bagging, sugar bag cloth and raw jute, due to the war program, early made it advisable that the subject be carefully examined so that appropriate action could be taken prior to the 1942 crop.

"In view of this situation the Council passed as a resolution at its January convention, authorizing its president, Oscar Johnson, to appoint a special committee of producers, shippers, and spinners to attempt to develop a program which would provide for proper allowances to be made by spinners and cotton merchants to producers on cotton wrapped in cotton bale covering."

In addition to Chairman Comer, the committee appointed by Mr. Johnston was composed of the following Council delegate members: A. K. Winget, Albemarle, North Carolina; W. A. Floyd, Greenville, South Carolina; Robert R. Coker, Hartsville, South Carolina; N. C. Williamson, Lake Province, Louisiana; T. W. Steiner, Gonzales, Texas; L. T. Barringer, Memphis, Tennessee; Charles W. Shepard, Jr., Gadsden, Alabama; and J. M. Locke, Houston, Texas.

Shortages in supplies of jute bagging and sugar bags for reuse as cotton bale covering made it necessary for the Department of Agriculture to subsidize the manufacture of 4,000,000 patterns of cotton bagging in order to cover the 1942 crop. This meant that approximately one-third of the crop would necessarily carry a substantially lighter tare than usual and that unless the producer was compensated for this lighter covering, he would be penalized for using cotton bagging. The shipper could not afford to make the weight allowance to the seller unless he knew definitely that he was going to sell 100 per cent of the cotton purchased to the group of mills who had agreed to make such allowances to him. Consequently he was not prone to compensate the producer at the time of purchase. It was to eliminate this source of confusion and agitation within the industry that the new uniform addition to all trade rules was proposed by the Council. Under the new addition to the rule, the shipper can make allowances to the seller at the time of purchase because he knows that all mills, in turn, will make the allowance to him.

"The addition to the trading rules is a much more satisfactory plan than was the net weight trading law proposed through legislation," Mr. Comer explained. "With the allowance established in the trading rules, a farmer who takes to market a bale of cotton wrapped in cotton bagging will be told that seven pounds will be added to the gross weight of his bale, whereby under a net weight law the buyer would be required to deduct 22 pounds from the gross weight of a jute covered bale. This latter procedure would provoke considerable controversy and ill feeling between the farmer and first buyer."

Since the Southern Cotton Mill Rules are formulated jointly by the American Cotton Manufacturers Association and the American Cotton Shippers Association, the first step taken by the Council's special committee was to seek an addition to the Southern Mill Rules that would be satisfactory to both associations. Subsequently, both associations passed resolutions approving the cotton bagging allowance plan, though including a contingency whereby the New England Terms for Buying and Selling American cotton must also be changed, and that the various association and exchanges must incorporate in their own trade rules a provision requiring the buyer to make to the seller the proper seven pound allowance.

At later dates conferences were held with a committee of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers and with officials of the New England Buyers Association. The various cotton exchanges were contacted. R. C. Dickerson, secretary of the American Cotton Shippers Association, submitted and handled the matter with all the affiliated trade associations, securing their favorable action on the plan.

As a last action in the long series of interviews, conference, and exchange of ideas, the board of government of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association accepted the addition to the Southern Mill Rules and set the date on which the new trade rule would be effective.

James Takes His Campaign To All Parts Of Texas

JESSE JAMES.

State Treasurer Jesse James, who lacked only 5,049 votes of getting a clear majority over all four of his opponents and polled 49.70 per cent of the votes cast in his race in the first primary, will have carried his run-off campaign into every section of Texas before Saturday, he announced today.

Mr. James, appointed State Treasurer last October by his good friend Governor Coke Stevenson, emphasized that he served more than four years as Assistant State Treasurer before taking over his present post, and that he is asking for a first full term on the grounds that he is qualified by experience for this important position. He promises to continue giving his undivided attention to the financial affairs of Texas, conduct the office in an honest, efficient, economical, and courtecus manner, and expend his every effort in the service of all the people.

"I honestly believe the voters of Texas will elect a State Treasurer August 22 in a manner which will reflect their deliberate and conscientious judgment, for this year, more than ever before, the threats to security require unity and harmony in support of all chosen leaders," Mr. James said.

He pointed out that the State Treasurer is merely the paying agent for Texas and has nothing to do with the enactment of laws governing the state's finances.

"In explanation," he said, "everyone but my opponent realizes that the legislature, not the State Treasurer, is the sole agency empowered with the authority to raise funds necessary to balance the budget."

Mr. James said one of the most gratifying things about the fine vote he received on July 25 was that his home county, Travis, also the home of two of his opponents, endorsed his candidacy by a majority vote, and he was given a plurality in Dallas County, home of his other two opponents.

"I am proud of that endorsement, and it will be one of the major factors in carrying my candidacy to victory in the run-off," he added.

Farmers Urged To Reduce Their Indebtedness

County Agricultural Agent Jack McCullough has received copies of letters written by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, regarding farmers reducing their long-term indebtedness on their farms. The letters, which are explanatory, are:

Mr. A. G. Black, Governor
Farm Credit Administration
Department of Agriculture
Kansas City, Missouri.

Dear Mr. Black:

I know that the Farm Credit Administration for some time has been urging farmers to use their excess income and any idle funds they have on hand to reduce their long-term indebtedness on their farms. I am sure that borrowers from the Federal land banks and the Land Bank Commisioners will be interested in the attached letter from President Roosevelt and I suggest that you make it available to each borrower.

Sincerely yours,
CLAUDE R. WICKARD,
Secretary.

My dear Mr. Secretary:

During the present war period it is important that we try to avoid unnecessary hardships such as were experienced by farmers and others during and following the first World War. By adopting suitable safeguards now, many of these hardships can be averted.

One important safeguard that we can begin using immediately is the paying off of debts ,mortgages, and other obligations. I know that the Farm Credit Administration within your Department has been urging farmers to use their increased incomes and such surplus funds as they may have on hand to reduce their outstanding long-term indebtedness. Those who take this advice will be contributing in a real way to the accomplishment of three important objectives. First, by making such payments they will reduce farm mortgage debt which might otherwise be burdensome in the readjustment period after the war. Second, use of increased purchasing power to pay debts instead of buying such things as we all can reasonably do without during the war will help keep the prices of such things from rising. Farmers like all other citizens of the Nation fear inflation. Third, repayments to creditors will enable them to buy more war bonds, thereby contributing materially to the war effort.

I cannot emphasize too strongly the need for a continuation of this constructive policy by the Farm Credit Administration and its cooperating borrowers.

Sincerely yours,

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

The Honorable,
The Secretary of Agriculture.

Pierce Brooks' Campaign Pledge "Win War First"

PIERCE BROOKS.

Pierce Brooks, runoff candidate for the unexpired term of Railroad Commissioner, has as his campaign pledge: "Win the war first."

"I will insist that everything possible be done to co-operate with our state and national governments in giving all-out support in the transportation of troops, materials and supplies during the present emergency, I am familiar with the problems of the railroads, freight and bus lines, truckers, oil men, the farmers and the ranchers. They will receive friendly, efficient service and thorough co-operation in settling their problems, when I am elected to the Railroad Commission."

In his speeches and radio addresses, Brooks pledges the preservation of our natural and physical resources. He insists that the suggested rationing of gasoline in Texas is unnecessary, pointing out that on the eastern seaboard, where rationing is now being experienced, they do not have available transportation facilities as we have, nor the proximity of our vast oil fields and refineries.

To the oil men of Texas, Brooks has promised his complete support in their war effort. "The oil men of Texas are doing what all of us should do. They are helping Uncle Sam. They are getting victory out of good earth in the form of vital petroleum, needed by our United Nations in this terrible crisis."

Throughout the state business men, professional men, families in every walk of life are wholeheartedly endorsing Pierce Brooks as the man entitled to the unexpired post on the Railroad Commission. Everywhere you go the good news is being broadcast, "Pierce Brooks, the business man and friend of the people will be elected."

Cotton Ruling

Cotton farmers who overplant their allotments by no more than three acres or three per cent, whichever is the larger, will not be considered as "knowingly overplanted" and may be eligible to receive a part of their conservation payments but they will be subject to conservation penalties and marketing quota penalties, B. F. Vance, state AAA administrative officer, has announced.

Conservation penalty rates Vance explained, are ten times the payment rate and if the three acre overplanting is ten per cent or more of the allotment, the penalty will wipe out the payment.

As an example, if the allotment is 30 acres and the farmer plants 33 acres, the penalty on the three acres will wipe out the payment on the 30 acres.

This provision, Vance explained further, in no way affect marketing quota regulations and the farmer will receive a red card if he overplants his allotment and will be subject to a marketing quota penalty if he sells cotton in excess of his farm marketing quota.

However, he concluded, farmers whose overplantings do not exceed three acres or three per cent, which ever is the larger, will be eligible for government loans.

Presence Of Leaf Worms In Cotton Crop In Collin

County Agricultural Agent Jack McCullough says there have been 100 or more farmers who have come to his office seeking information as to the control of leaf worm. "The presence of leaf worms in our cotton has been definitely established," he says. Most of these reports have come from the Southeastern part of the county; however, scattering reports have come from other parts of the county. Fields should be inspected for the presence of these pests and those who desire to control them should use Calcium Arsenate or Arsenate of Lead."

If Calcium Arsenate is used as a dust it should be used straight without mixing anything with it and from 5 to 8 pounds should be applied to the acre. If Calcium Arsenate is used as a spray 3 to 5 pounds of Calcium Arsenate should be thoroughly mixed with 50 gallons of water. It takes about 18 gallons of this spray to the acre.

If arsenate of lead is used as a dust, 8 pounds Arsenate of lead to one pound of lime should be mixed. It takes from 5 to 7 pounds of this mixture to the acre. If Arsenate of lead is used as a spray 3 pounds of Arsenate of lead should be mixed with 50 gallons of water. It takes 18 gallons of this mixture to cover one acre.

Calcium Arsenate can be gotten from the Oil Mill.

Tuesday Last Day To Cast Absentee Vote

Tuesday midnight was the last opportunity for citizens to vote absentee, says County Clerk W. C. Hagy. A total of 120 absentee ballots were cast while 170 applications were mailed.

This is considered a large number of votes in a runoff election, especially when there are so few offices with opposition. In fact, only four state runoff races will be found on the ballot, with no county races in Collin County to be decided, and with only one county commissioners precinct runoff race to be decided. The ballot, one of the shortest in history, follows:

Mr. Hurst states that many farmers do not consider that they have any scrap iron unless they have a large amount. The Government is wanting ounces, pounds, or tons, says Mr. Hurst. Good Collin County black land continues to change ownership, some for homes, other for investment.

Roy L. Brockman, for a quarter of a century owner of the Ritz, Texas and State Theaters in McKinney, believing it a good idea to lay aside a few nickels to aid his new granddaughter, Louan Brockman, who arived the day he bought the farm, the McKinney Realty Company, through its agents Tom W. Perkins and Frank Blackwell, sold Mr. Brockman a one hundred and fifteen acre farm, four miles from McKinney on a black top road known as Highwty twenty-four, leading to Frisco. Mr. Brockman bought the land purely as a business investment.

He was born, and reared in Collin County and expects to remain here as long as he lives. What he has, he made it in Collin County and feels he is justified in buying these good black lands when they go on the market, and holding them. The deal was a cash one, the land belonging to Miss Vivian Rhea Newsome of Plano for whom this agency has sold several farms in the last three or four years, the total amount being over 700 acres. If you want to deal with a well established, perfectly reliable real estate agency, call on the McKinney Realty Company with offices in the Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette building, Frank Blackwell, Manager.

If you desire to sell, list your land with the McKinney Realty Company, and Mr. Blackwell and they will do their best to get the job done. They will.

TINY 1943 AUTO TAGS.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSE tags for 1943 in Texas will be "tabs" instead of tags, will be one-20th the size of this year's tags, but will cost the automobile owner just the same fee he paid this year, according to information from the State Highway Department at Austin. The plan is to have the tab inserted in the plate-holder, at one corner, to show that the 1943 license fee has been paid, but leaving the 1942 license tag with its larger numerals in place both front and rear on the car for easier identification by number. Purpose of the tiny tag is to save cost of production and save metal

THE GENERAL DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT THINGS.

BRIG. GENERAL JIMMY DOOLITTLE, who led U. S. bombers over Tokyo, was refused a tube of tooth paste because he had no empty tube to give in exchange and was bluntly asked if he knew there was a war going on, a Memphis Tennessee, druggist revealed recently.

Druggist Malin M. Ellis said he did not at first recognize his distinguished customer when Doolittle visited Memphis last month. After being refused the tooth paste he then asked for an item that has been difficult to obtain because of war interference with imports. He was told it was not in stock.

The next item requested was a bottle of hair tonic and Doolittle protested mildly over the seemingly excessive tax on the bottle. Ellis fixed a stern eye upon him and asked:

"You've heard about the war, haven't you?"

"I just didn't know," was the reply, "You see, I've been away. Doolittle is my name."

After that he got the tooth paste.

JUNK IS KING.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN our history as an industrial nation we are asked to organize our habits of throwing away junk. The junkman's cry has taken on a new briskness. The salvage committees and salvage wardens talk about "Salvage for victory" and urge us to "Rout out that dormant scrap," "Clean house and sock Hitler." War has made junk king and behind the squeak and rattle of the junk cart sounds the rumble of tanks and artillery.

A third of the rubber and one-half of the steel used in armament can be scrap. Every army raincoat needs three-quarters of a pound of rubber scrap, a bomber tire may use up to thirty pounds. About half of the steel in tanks and some of the steel in planes is scrap.

We used 59,600,000 tons of scrap in 1941. The estimates for 1942 call for at least as much, to be put into arms for America, and the scrap piles are low. Razor blades alone will not build them up, but on the other hand discarded farm implements, battered pokers and bent toys all help.

AN AMERICAN.

I'm an American. Within my veins there flows
The blood of all nations. Freedom is my birthright.
I know no fear of tyrant power or the sight
Of tinseled rank; among the rulers of the earth
I tower, myself a king, son of patriot sires
And mothers who worshiped only God. I breathe.
The air of liberty and know no law save right,
With love for God, and justice for my fellow man.
Yet unto the oppressed of every land and clime
I bring the fact of brotherhood and speak the joy
Of honest toil and educated mind, I rise
Upon the past; look not behind, I turn my eyes
Toward the sunrise of a new world with liberty,
Truth, and justice regnant among humanity.

Hon. Sam Rayburn Addresses Joint Rotary, Lion Meet

By DON W. BAGWILL.

With the declaration that "There's a Fascist organization in America that wants dictatorship if they can name the dictator," Hon. Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Speaker of the House of Representatives in Washington, addressing a joint luncheon of the McKinney Rotary and Lions Clubs Thursday noon, said, "As long as the people have a voice in the House of Representatives, that day will not come."

Speaker Rayburn was heard by more than 100 Rotarians and Lions and their guests at the joint luncheon, held at the First Christian Church. He devoted much of his time to a frank discussion of the war and told his hearers, "What we are fighting for is freedom, liberty and a right to our way of life.

"We believe in the sacredness of the home, where honest people are not ashamed to kneel in prayer at the start of the day and ask God's guidance. We are fighting those who do not believe in the church and in God."

Not a Short War Unless We Lose

Speaker Rayburn explained the philosophy of Hitler, who teaches his subjects to kill. A British official who participated in the battle of Crete, told him that many of the German parachutists used in that invasion were boys from 12 to 14 years of age.

As in other addresses he has delivered during his brief vacation home from his arduous duties in Washington, he informed his hearers that this will not be a short war unless we lose. "I wish that I might paint a rosy picture of the war for you, that we're winning battles, and that victory is just around the bend, but if I did I would not be honest with you. We are in the grimest, most serious fight the United States has ever indulged in since Valley Forge. We have considered ourselves a long way from those battle fields, but what we thought of as our protectors, the oceans, have become our greatest hazards. We are on the offensive on only one battle front and that is in the Pacific Ocean and that has not ended yet.

We have the greatest navy, but we had to split it for duty in the two oceans.

"It's a war of attrition in the Pacific and we shall outbuild the enemy in planes, ships and other war goods."

Warns Against Spreading Rumors

Speaker Rayburn, warning against spreading rumors, declared that one can go to a dinner in Washington and practically everyone there has "inside information." It's a rumor market, as he warned against passing on rumors. There are fifth columnists, who are disloyal to our country. "I never ask an admiral or other official for war facts and data, for fear I might be accused of spreading rumors. We never thought that persons born in America, would return to Germany to be trained in sabotage, to return to this country to destroy.

"Time," he said, "weighs heavily on us, but we're getting things in Alaska, Hawaii, Australia and the Aleutians."

He referred to the administration fight, in which he and other leaders fought with President Roosevelt to fortify Guam and other Pacific ocean possessions. "I pleaded for it, but that was a time when we were singing 'I Didn't Raise My Boy To Be A Soldier,' and 'Why Offend the Japanese, Our Friends.' We had no naval bases in the Pacific. If he had held Wake and Guam, we might have reached General MacArthur in the Philippines.

Pays Compliment To American Soldier.

"We shall drive the enemy out of these strongholds," he said, as he paid a compliment to the American soldier. "Our boys are the greatest soldiers in the world. They know more what it's all about. They are better fed and tutored and I guarantee that when they arrive in Australia, they don't like a Jap."

To the Fathers and Mothers, and brothers and sisters, and sweethearts of men in the service, he said, "We've been slow in getting men to every part of the world. But we're not going to send a boy out until he is fully equipped and trained and then we'll follow him with plenty of food and instructions on how to defend himself. Ours is the best-equipped army in history."

Speaker Rayburn spoke briefly of the submarine menace in the Atlantic and of the fight of the Administration forces to secure authority to arm merchant vessels.

Compliments Russia.

He also paid a high compliment to Russia. Many persons thought that when Hitler invaded Russia, that Russia could not stand up to the onslaught and terrific drive of the invaders and predicted that the Russians would fall in three to six weeks. But that has not been the case. We are giving all possible aid to Russia, he said, as he referred to the great loss of life of both Germany and Russia and said that Germany will find it difficult to fill the gaps of her armies. Their loss has been terrific.

He compared the first world war with the present struggle and said that the first was small in comparison to the one in which we are engaged, with fighting in that war occurring in only two or three countries. Today we are fighting in every one of the seven seas. Conditions inside Germany brought the first world war to a close. He related the surprise of the Germans in learning that a million Americans were in France in the first world war after they had been taught to believe that Americans could not land. "We had a place to land then, but France is closed to us and so is all of Europe, with the exception of the British Isles unless we fight for a landing."

Second Front.

As to a second front, he related the difficulties of establishing a second front, with the air filled with bombs and the shore, intended for landing, an arsenal. He was of the opinion there had been too much talk of a second front, making the people too hopeful and too optimistic.

"We must be patient and not have another Dunkirk. I don't want a second front we can not hold. In fact, I think there is a second front. When 1,000 airplanes with tons of bombs fly in a night over an industrial section of the enemy dealing destruction ,besides the loss in industry, that country is faced with a migration of its people. In the Ruhr Valley and in France, the bombings have been effective, carried on day and night.

"It's not a good picture. It will take time to put the Japanese out of the Pacific, and Germany out of France, Belgium and Russia, and to drive the axis out of Africa. But we can outbuild the enemy and we are going to do that." Speaker Rayburn did not paint a bright picture of the war in the African desert. If the enemy takes Africa, that will close the Suez Canal and our gateway for sending supplies to Russia and other Allies.

Americans Not Complacent.

"We must win the war. In the name of civilization it must be done. I believe somebody will crack up and I don't believe it will be us.

"They are not going to invade the United States. They don't have to. If they conquer the rest of the world, we will be in our little corner, carrying on trade and commerce with ourselves and no one else, and instead of being a leading nation, we will shrink."

Speaker Rayburn said he had never believed that the majority of the American people could be called complacent. "In fact, I believe that Texas was ready to go to war twelve months before we were attacked. The people are ready to do anything they are convinced that is necessary to win the war.

"We will do without our cars if necessary, without sugar, will pay more taxes for a while. And, even if we do all this, we will be living better than when I was a boy, when we didn't have a buggy on our farm and when we used sorghum molasses for sweetening. Maybe we've wandered too far from home and don't sit on our porches at home enough in the summer time and around our firesides enough in the winter time. The older I get the more personal some things become. God becomes more personal the older I get.

Let's Take It On The Chin.

"Who knows but what this road of travail may be the road back to God. The home, church and schools should be our first thought.

"Let's not complain. Let's take it on the chin. We can and we will be doing a paltry job compared to the job the soldier is doing on the battle front.

"My mission is that the American people shall not forget the boys who are fighting to keep our country free and for the sanctity of the home. If the government wants 10 per cent, or 50 per cent of my salary, they can have it. There is no greater sacrifice than for parents to send off their sons, whom they have reared and taught for a world of peace, to war. We are fighting in the greatest cause ever known to civilization and we will win this battle."

Speaker Rayburn declared that during forty-eight months Congress has had one sixty-day adjournment. He is completing a two weeks stay in Texas. North Texas looks better and is more restful to him than anywhere else, when he can come back and associate with his own blood and friends. He praised the uniform kindness of Collin County.

His work in Washington is difficult, and his position as Speaker is said to be second most responsible in the Government. It carries responsibilities and duties that are crushing. But, he said, "you've got to stand it."

Upholds Congress.

He referred to the criticism of Congress in being called Yes Men and rubber stamps and destroyers of Democracy for nine years. Since 1936, when he assumed the leadership of his party, he said he became a member of a team composed of the President, Vice-President, Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Majority leaders of each house. Those men and the President meet each Monday at the White House to discuss legislation and there is no "Yessing," for the President doesn't like yes men. The discussions are free, and while the decisions are not always exactly as he would have them, he declared. "I'm going along with the team or I'm going to get off the team. There is no message to Congress or any bill or legislation advanced by President Roosevelt until it has been discussed with this group and with the ranking members of both Houses in Washington."

Speaker Rayburn referred to an address he delivered at Muhlenburg College in Pennsylvania, in which he told his hearers that he had heard much criticism of the way Congress has done its job. He upheld the acts and decisions of the nation's lawmakers by saying that they had done their work, had given every dollar asked by the army and navy for war, "for that is our job. We are lawmakers. Congress can not run the war. That is a job for the armed forces of the nation.

Dictators Control Voices of The People.

"It appears that an effort has been made to discredit and to destroy the representative bodies of lawmakers in our government, he said. The dictators did not get control until they controlled the voices of the representatives and the people."

Speaker Rayburn explained the action of the Congres in voting itself the so-called pension. But Congress did not vote itself pensions, he said. "We were merely following the example of government clerks in Post Offices and other departments and agencies in setting aside a part of our salary into a retirement fund to be paid back upon retirement from Congress. Congress voted to use this system by setting aside five per cent of its salary for this purpose.

"The members took the view of "What's the Use" when such a furore was shown throughout the nation.

Regarding the X gasoline ration cards, for which so great criticism has been heaped on Congress, Speaker Rayburn said that 18,000 of these X cards were given out to officials of the government and the army and navy in Washington and that of this amount, only 200 had been given to members of Congress, which they did not request. Members of Congress did not apply for them, but they were handed to them. "I'm not going to take all this criticism, lying down, I'm going to defend the greatest body of lawmakers in the world. During the time I have served in the House I have never known one to do a personally dishonest thing," he said.

Beck Qualified By Experience

Senator Harold Beck Seeks Office Of Lieutenant Governor In The Runoff Primary Election; Has Presided Over The Senate.

Based on his unquestioned record of supporting all legislation in the interest of the people, Senator Harold Beck of Texarkana seeks the office of Lieutenant Governor in the run-off primary this Saturday.

As Lieutenant Governor, Senator Beck would preside over the State Senate, a job he has already proven his ability to perform. When Coke Stevenson became Governor, relinquishing the Lieutenant-Governorship, members of the State Senate unanimously elected Sen. Beck President pro-tem, pending election of a new Lieutenant Governor in the primaries. His friends hold that this expression by his Senate members is a token of belief and confidence in his qualifications to perform the duties of the office.

Senator Beck is known as the type of legislator who gets things done, with a minimum of oratory and none of the hand-waving, chest-pounding eloquence that frequently wastes time and delays passage of vital legislation.

Senator Beck's pledge is to work closely and cooperatively with the governor. He finds himself, at the stage of the political campaign, in the same place that Coke Stevenson found himself when, as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, Stevenson ran second in the primary, but emerged victorious in the run-off. Beck is confident that history will repeat itself, through the people giving him first place in this year's run-off.

While the Senator is for economy in state government, he has made it plain during the campaign that economies must not be instituted at the expense of the aged folk, the blind, the dependent children and the teacher retirement fund.

Senator Beck supported the anti-violence strike bill, but does not pose as the hero of this legislative action, because all other members of the State Senate voted for the measure, his friends say this is typical of Beck, who has no time for political activity or bombastic claims, which he says the people have come to tire of and deplore.

500 Workers Are Needed At Grand Prairie Base

Five hundred general service workers, between the ages of 17 and 30, are needed immediately for training at the Naval Air Base at Grand Prairie, Lieut. L. H. Ridout, Jr., officer in charge of the North Texas recruiting district, announced tadoy. Men showing marked aptitude for aviation mechanics will be accepted and given a training course.

An additional, unlimited number of trained aviation mechanics, cabinet makers, and fabric experts are in demand to service ships of the Navy's rapidly expanding air fleet and to deal with intricacies of lumber work. Three aerologists, familiar with determining weather conditions, also are being sought. These men may range in age from 17 to 50.

"After being closed for several days to new recruits, the base is beinv reopened for men with experience in these trades," Lieutenant Ridout said. "How long it will remain open depends upon the response to this latest call.

"I feel certain that such specialists are still available in this territory," he continued. "The opportunity to be assured of following their trades inthe service and to spend their initial duty at the Grand Prairie base is one which they must accept without delay."

Recruits should apply at 438 Federal Building, Dallas, for passes to the base, where, with these credentials, interviews will be granted.

Lieutenant Ridout stressed that men may enlist in the Navy as late as the day before they are scheduled for induction.

Local Boards throughout the State have today been instructed by State Headquarters memorandum to proceed immediately with the classification of all registrants of the Fifth Registration who have reached their twentieth birthday.

The men registered in the Fifth Registration, General Page pointed out, were those between the ages of eighteen and twenty, inclusive, and in Texas affected approximately 132,000 men.

"The Selective Training and Service Act, as amended, "General Page stated, "sets out that, except as otherwise provided, every male citizen of the United States and every male person residing in the United States, who is between the ages of twenty and forty-five at the time fixed for registration, or who attains the age of twenty after having been required to register, shall be liable for training and service in the land or naval forces of the United States.

"Accordingly, all registrants of the Fifth Registration are reaching their twentieth birthday, subject to induction when their order number is reached."

No national lottery was or will be held for registrants of this age group, General Page stated and order numbers have been assigned on the basis of birth dates of the registrants (and alphabetically as to registrants born on the same date).

Livestockmen Plan For Fall Livestock Meeting In City

Members of the Collin County Pure Bred Livestock Association, at their monthly meeting Saturday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in McKinney, discussed plans for the livestock show to be held in this city early in November. President Joe C. Moore was in charge of the meeting, with Secretary Waldron W. Cooley recording the minutes.

The livestockmen, who believe the show will be one of the biggest livestock events in North Texas, will emphasize production of more livestock products, including meat, milk and butter, on less feed for the war program.

In addition, the livestockmen will stress the educational features for club boys and girls in the county, with prizes, donated free, to go to the boys and girls excelling a judging. W. F. Carter will donate a Poland China gilt, free to the club boy or girl making the highest judging score in the swine division, and Joe C. Moore of Melissa will give a Jersey heifer, free, to the boy or girl making the highest grade in judging Jerseys.

The show will continue for three days at the livestock barns, East of the Coliseum, and with only minor differences the rules of the Free Fair will be used, with only pure bred livestock of this county shown. Cattle, hogs, swine and sheep will be exhibited, with the organization usually in charge of these divisions at the Free Fair in charge.

Officials of the Collin County Pure Bred Livestock Association urge Collin livestock owners to be getting their livestock in shape and their exhibits ready for the show. They explain that the reason they are holding the event this year, in view of the fact that the Collin County Free Fair is not being held, is because of the stress placed on livestock and livestock products by the government as a means of winning the war.

Victory Club Is Started Here By Credit Ass'n.

"Farmers and ranchmen are called upon for unstinting cooperation and sacrifice in furnishing necessary food and fibre for the war and helping to finance it," said W. M. Gibson, Field Assistant of the McKinney Production Credit Association, in announcing organization plans for doing a bigger job of buying War Bonds.

A "Victory Club" has been started by the McKinney Production Credit Association to enlist its members in a drive to set aside certain calves, pigs, production from milk cows, laying hens, cotton acreages or other agricultural production to be invested in War Bonds. There are no other requirements, Mr. Gibson said.

"Farmers and stockmen, their wives and children can enroll if they agree to designate part of their farm production to go into War Bonds," he said. "Those who sign up will be given a membership card and will have their names posted on the PCA roll of honor."

Although sponsored by the FCA, membership in the club is open to all farmers and ranchmen in this territory. More than one member of a family may join. Enrollment blanks were sent this week to the 800 members, Mr. Gibson said, but any person interested who did not receive one may obtain a blank from the Production Credit Association office in McKinney.

Making Milk

The blood circulation of a dairy cow is a primary factor in the milk she gives. Recent experimental work, says G. G. Gibson, Assistant Dairyman of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, shows that 400 gallons of blood passes through the udder for every gallon of milk a cow produces. Multiply this by the day's yield and the immense amount of work a cow's heart does to fill her share of the nation's milk bottles is apparent.

Most milkers have noticed upon sitting down that the udder did not appear to be full. Soon, however, it filled up because "the cow let down her milk." The business of "letting down" happens in this way: A stimulus associated with milking is carried by the sensory nerve to the brain, which sends a message to the pituitary gland, which releases a hormone which is carried by the blood to the udder. This causes contraction of the muscle fibre in the secretory tissues of the udder, forcing the milk into the lower part so it can be drawn out.

Thus the cow's job. But the cowman's colloboration also is important. Among do's and dont's in extracting al lof the cow's milk, Mr. Gibson suggests: Regularity—milking at the same time night and morning; a good milker must be able to get along with cows, otherwise poor production results; and do nothing to stimulate milk let-down any considerable time in advance of milking. Otherwise the hormone which has been secreted in the blood streams will be disipated and the edge gone from the cow's ability to force down her milk.

Collin County's First Bale Of Cotton From 1942 Crop Arrives In McKinney Earlier Than Usual

S. C. Pruett Of Altoga, Grower, Brings Bale To McKinney Wednesday Afternoon; Ginned By McKinney Gin Company; $25.00 War Bond Given To Grower By McKinney Senior Chamber Of Commerce.

Arriving in McKinney nearly two weeks earlier than the season's initial bale in 1941, Collin County's first bale of cotton from the 1942 crop arrived in McKinney Wednesday afternoon, brought in by the grower, S. C. Pruett of Altoga, in East Collin. Mr. Pruett used forty pickers to get out the bale. In addition to having the bale auctioned off free to the highest bidder, Mr. Pruett will find a $25.00 war bond ready for him, for the honor of bringing the first bale to McKinney, the gift of the McKinney Senior Chamber of Commerce of which C. Hansford Ray is President and Hammond W. Moore is Secretary.

The 1941 first bale arrived in McKinney Tuesday, August 26, grown by W. S. Sebastian of the Josephine community. The bale was of the Mebane variety, weighed 1,400 pounds in the seed and turned out a 475-pound lint bale. Mr. Sebastian had a cotton crop of thirty-two acres and said he covered ten acres to get the first bale. The bale was auctioned off Saturday, August 30, by Col. George Apple, purchased by Sam Reichman for 30 cents per pound, netting Mr. Sebastian $142.50 and in addition McKinney merchants contributed a premium of $37.75, his half of the seed selling for $20.00, netting Mr. Sebastian a total of $200.25.

The 1940 first bale arrived in McKinney Tuesday afternoon, August 20, grown by J. P. Hammonds, living North of McKinney, who used ten pickers to cover about twelve acres of the 53-acre crop, bringing 24 cents per pound and purchased by W. B. Mitchell. The price netted the grower $91.20 for his 389-pound bale and together with the $41.75 cash premium offered by McKinney business men, netted Mr. Hammonds $132.95.

War Ration Stamp No. 8 Valid For 5 Pounds Sugar

Elton Riggs, Chairman Of The War Price And Rationing Board, Says Quota For Ten Weeks Supply.

War Ration Stamp Number 8 will be valid for the purchase of five pounds of sugar during the ten-week period beginning August 23 and ending October 31, Elton Riggs, chairman of the Collin County War Price and Rationing Board, announced today.

"This is a larger amount of sugar and the ration period is longer than has been assigned for any previous stamp," Mr. Riggs explained, "but each person will have to continue using sugar at the original rate of no more than half a pound a week to make the five - pound ration last ten weeks."

Mr. Riggs said the allotment of five pounds on Stamp No. 8 will permit household users to buy sugar in larger packages, and also will help to dispose of five, ten and 25-pound packages.

Packages of these sizes were put up last fall and winter before it was known that rationing would be necessary," he said, "and the stores have had difficulty in disposing of these larger packages, because the ration stamps heretofore have been valid for only one or two-pound purchases. Unless the sugar in the larger packages is sold, it would have to be repackaged, and that would cause an undersiable waste of labor and materials."

Stamps Nubrebs 6 and 7 carry validity for the purchase of two pounds of sugar each until midnight of August 22.
